Exhibit Scheduled By Canyon Artist

A Canyon artist has scheduled a one-man exhibition in the Fine Arts Building, opening Sunday and running through April 20.

Don Ray, a senior at West Texas State College, will be honored at a tea Sunday from 2 until 6 p.m. in the lounge of the Fine Arts Building, where more than 50 of his pieces will be on display.

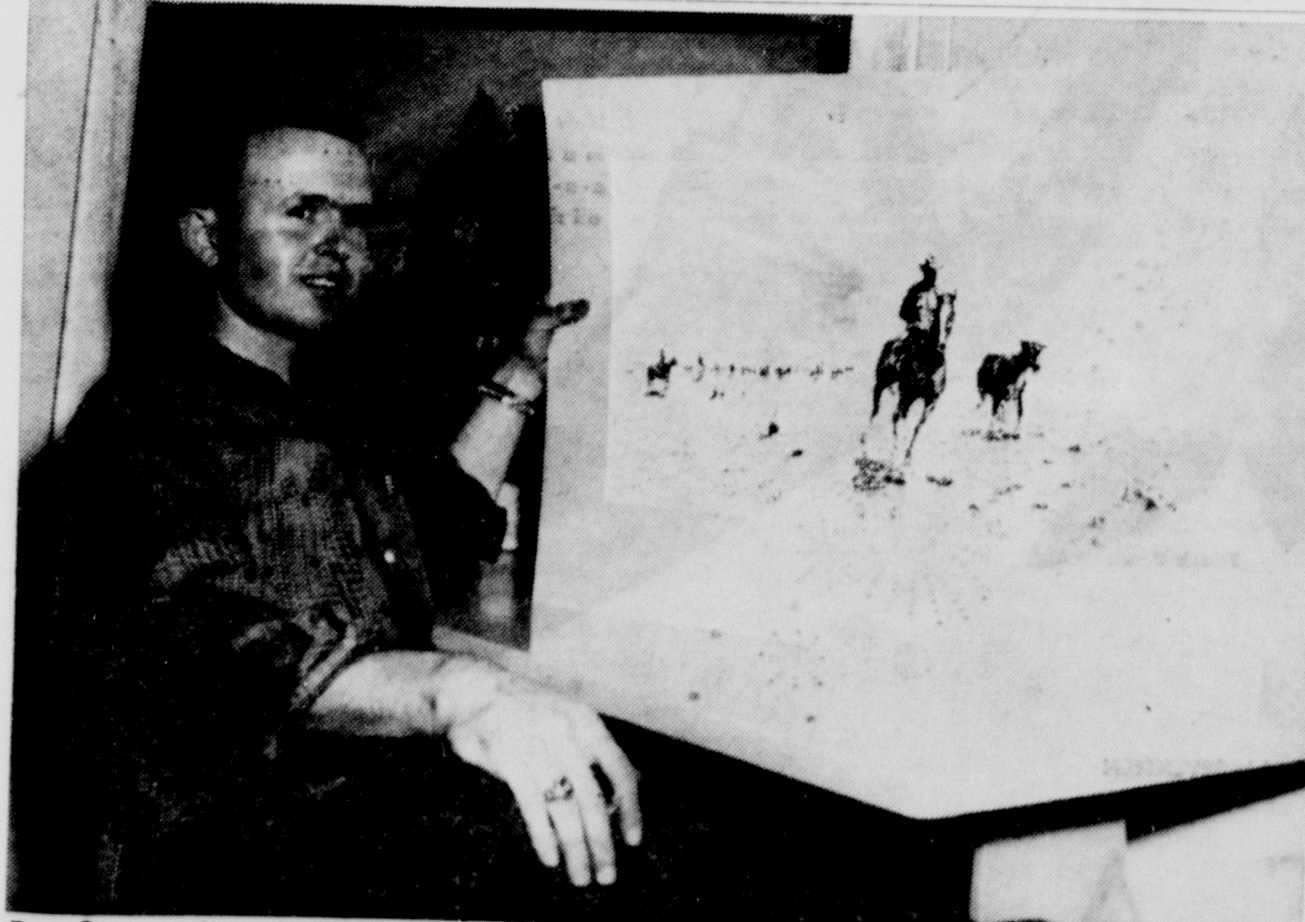

The paintings and drawings are chiefly western scenes in oils, water colors, and pen and ink drawings. Cattle, horses, riders, and ranch scenes are depicted. One piece of sculpture is included in the exhibit.

A 1955 graduate of Canyon High School, Ray expects to receive a B.S. degree in art in May, and will be commissioned into the regular Army after graduation. He spent last summer in the Reserve Officers' Training Corps camp at Fort Hood. He spent previous summers with the U. S. Forestry Service.

Ray grew up on the C. T. McMurtry ranch near Clarendon and the Walter Graham farm southwest of Canyon. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Ray.

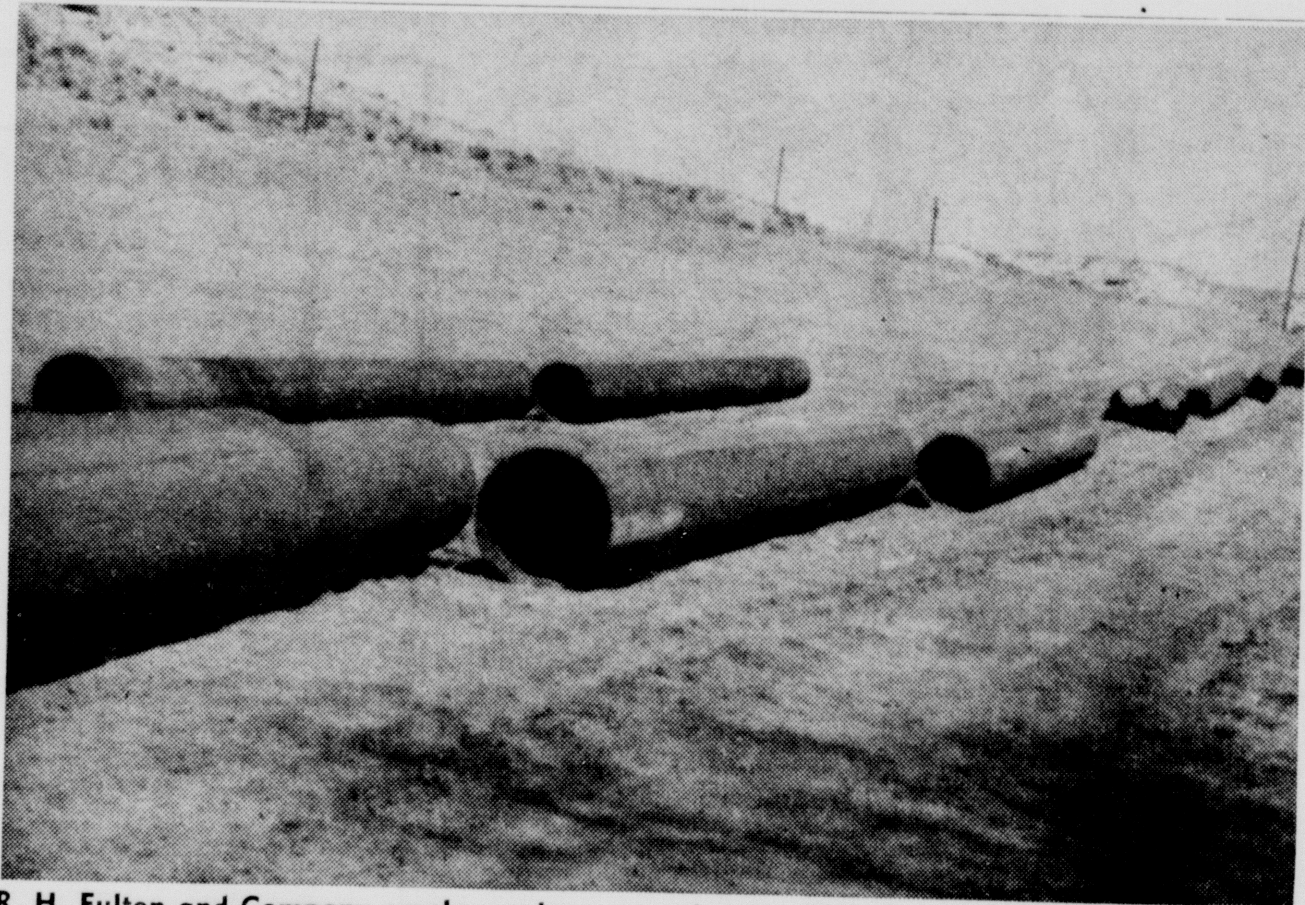

He is married to the former Marilyn Pafford.

Webb Elected Eagle Mentor

R. H. Fulton and Company employees have moved into Canyon, and the fruits of their labor is evident. The company is laying a 24-inch pipeline from the south bank of the Canadian River to Dawn, about 20 miles west of Canyon. Here the pipe is shown after it was strung across the number three fairway at Canyon City Club. The pipe now has been moved out of the fairway, however.

Facilities in Canyon Strained To Accommodate Pipeliners

An influx of some 230 pipeliners into Canyon was evident this week as motels, trailer parks, apartment houses, and other facilities were stretched to the breaking point to accommodate the crew and their families.

The men are working on a 24-inch gas pipeline for R. H. Fulton and Company of Lubbock.

The Fulton company has a contract to lay the line from the south bank of the Canadian River to Dawn, about 20 miles west of Canyon, for Transwestern Pipeline Company of Amarillo.

Caldwell Warns Dog Poisoners

Canyon Chief of Police L. D. Caldwell issued a warning this week that anyone caught putting out dog poison would be prosecuted.

A rash of dog-poisonings last week hit the western end of town, and six dogs were killed within two days of poison.

The dogs were killed in the vicinity of Lindsey Trailer Park, which is located in the 200 block of 10th Street.

Chief Caldwell said about 25 children—from toddlers to age three—live at the trailer park. The chief cited the danger of the small children coming in contact and eating some of the poison. It could be very dangerous, he said.

in Canyon, the company plans to keep its offices here until its part of the contract is completed, a spokesman said.

Length of the company's stay here depends on the weather, the spokesman said.

Most of the company's equipment is situated in the vicinity of Pullman Switch, northeast of Amarillo. Right-of-way has been cleared and pipe has been strung, however, to the Fulton company's terminal point at Dawn.

Stockpile Depleted
Pipe for line in this area had been stockpiled on Highway 60, west of town. Trucks began moving it out last week onto the right-of-way.

The line runs northeast to south-west.

When completed, the entire line will be 1,809 miles long—stretching from the Texas and Oklahoma Panhandle to the West Texas and New Mexico Permian Basin.

Weather Cuts Progress

It was estimated early this year that the line would be completed by July. However, several weeks of bad weather have prevented work on the line by the Fulton Company, and it is likely that other contractors lost work time also.

Main system of the pipeline will consist of 30-inch, 24-inch, and 20-inch pipe. Cost of the entire project is in excess of $200 million.

The line is being constructed for Pacific Lighting Gas Supply Company, a California organization, which is constructing a pipeline from California to tie-in with the Transwestern line.

County May Ask Bond Vote for Loop

A proposed loop around Amarillo may bring Randall County voters a bond election. The loop and methods of financing it were discussed Monday by Randall County Commissioners Court.

C. Y. Johnson, precinct 4 commissioner, said the State Highway Department has planned the loop, but has not engineered it. Until it is engineered, the county cannot estimate cost of the loop.

One section of the loop, a strip connecting the Amarillo Expressway and Farm-to-Market road 1541 (Washington Street) is almost out of the planning stage.

Estimates place the number of acres involved in right-of-way purchases at 400. The State of Texas will participate in buying right-of-way on a 50-50 basis.

Roland Black, executive secretary of the Canyon Chamber of Commerce, said he does not think a bond issue can receive the two-thirds majority for approval.

Randall County's portion of the proposed loop runs straight south from Highway 66 to a point 1.5 miles west of Hollywood, then east across the expressway and Washington and east of Washington five miles before turning north to the Potter County line.

Black said plans shown the Canyon Chamber two years ago did not extend the loop far enough out from the city limits.

Clarence Beckman, precinct 2 commissioner, said building of the loop would depend on whether the people want it badly enough to vote bonds for it.

The commissioners court heard a request by A. C. Haley, Jr., president of the Canyon Little League, for financial aid to the baseball program. The court will consider Haley's request later, along with requests from similar organizations.

Pay Taxes By April 1, City Says

Property owners within the City of Canyon were warned this week to pay their taxes by April 1 or have their names and description of the property published in The News.

City officials said the home rule charter, which Canyon voters adopted last June, requires that names, the property description, and the taxes due on the delinquent tax roll be published at least four times.

All ad valorem taxes of the City of Canyon are due by April 1—the start of the city's next fiscal year.

$2 Advertising Fee
Under the provisions of the charter, the city also must charge a $2 fee for advertising each tract of land.

This fee must be paid, along with another $1 fee for allowing the taxes on the land to become delinquent—before any receipt can be issued for payment of taxes.

The delinquent tax roll of the city must be prepared by May 1 and names of those on the delinquent roll must be published not later than 90 days after the end of the fiscal year, which is March 31.

What Charter Says

Section 12.08 of the charter reads: "Said delinquent roll shall be finished and . . . furnished by the Assessor and Collector or other officer not later than thirty (30) days after the end of each fiscal year. Said delinquent roll shall be published not later than ninety (90) days after the end of each fiscal year . . . for four (4) consecutive weeks in some newspaper published in the City of Canyon, and the City shall also be entitled to charge Two Dollars ($2.00) for advertising such tract of land separately assessed . . . and no receipt to any delinquent tax payer shall be issued until such cost of advertising has been paid . . ."

Public Invited To Bosley Talk

A community service, with the Willson Lectures speaker, Dr. Harold A. Bosley, making the address, will be held tonight at 8 in the Administration Building auditorium at West Texas State College. The public is invited.

Dr. Bosley, minister of the First Methodist Church of Evanston, Ill., spoke this morning for the first time for the Religious Emphasis Week services at WT, which opened Tuesday morning.

He was delayed in his arrival in Canyon, and Dr. James L. Sullivan, who is currently conducting a revival at the First Baptist Church, was speaker for the Tuesday services.

Dr. Bosley's general theme for the series of addresses at 10:15 each morning at WT is "The Risks of Thought in Religion."

His address tonight will be on "The Public Consequences of Sin." His final two addresses Thursday and Friday mornings will be "How Shall We Think of the Bible?" and "How Shall We Think of the Church?"

Religious Emphasis Week for students at WT will include "bull" sessions and vespers each evening following Dr. Bosley's talks. The week is jointly sponsored each year by the Inter-Faith Council at WT and the Canyon Ministerial Alliance.

Presiding at tonight's service will be Rev. Donald Price, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church and chairman of the Ministerial Alliance.

City Commissioners Get Bids for New Fire Truck

Bids for a new fire truck were received Monday by city commissioners, but the successful bidder will not be known until all bids are tabulated.

Five companies submitted bids for the fire engine, ranging in price from $24,559.97 to $30,000. It will take at least six months for delivery of the truck after the bid is let.

Trustees Hire Assistant to Gene Mayfield

E. J. "Jeep" Webb, assistant football coach at Borger High School, was named head coach at Canyon High School by trustees of Canyon Independent School District.

Webb, 30-year-old assistant to Gene Mayfield, replaces Bill Davis, who resigned as Eagle mentor recently to take the job of head coach and athletic director at Lamasa High School.

The former West Texas State College lineman said he would move to Canyon "as soon as I can get a release at Borger."

Expects Early Release
He said he expects an early release, and possibly could come to Canyon next week.

Webb has worked with Mayfield for five years since graduating with a bachelor of science degree in 1955 from WT.

He spent three years—from 1955 to 1958—at Littlefield High School before moving to Borger in April, 1958. He has been at Borger since then.

To Recommend Assistants
He said he had two or three assistant coaches in mind who he would recommend to the school board, which the board had requested he do.

His recommendations will be made after taking over the job here.

James Kauffman, assistant to Coach Davis, will transfer to Lamasa after the school year is finished here to join Davis. The fate of Bill West, another Davis assistant, was still undetermined Tuesday night.

Tulia High Graduate

Webb is a 1949 graduate of Tulia High School, where he was a football standout. He played fullback his senior year, and guard and tackle in earlier seasons.

He joined the Buffs in the fall of 1949 as a guard and earned his freshman letter and three varsity letters as a guard for the WT eleven.

The new Eagle mentor is married and has two children, Tana, four-years-old, and Typ, 15-months-old.

Two Top Linemen Signed by Buffs

Two key linemen on Breckenridge High School's state championship football team last year will enroll at West Texas State in the fall, according to head coach Joe Kerbel.

They are Glenn Dixon, 225-pound tackle who made all-district, all-area, and all-state; and Jimmy Wright, 190-pound guard who gained all-district and all-area honors for the Buckaroos.

Wright, who was a tri-captain this fall, earned football letters four years at Breckenridge and is the third athlete in the history of the school to do the trick. The big, agile Dixon, who had scholarship offers from nine other Southwest colleges, lettered three seasons.

Winning two consecutive state football titles was listed as the biggest "football thrill" of both boys. The Buckaroos won the Class AAA crown outright in 1958 and tied Cleburne for the title last fall.

"We chose West Texas," said Wright, "because it is a friendly campus and has a great football future. Its new football stadium is just great."

Both boys plan to major in physical education at West Texas and want to coach after graduation.

"Both of these young men are the type that insure the future of West Texas football," said Coach Kerbel. "They have a great football tradition, and I know they will do an outstanding job at West Texas, both in the classroom and on the athletic field."

40 Area Bands Coming Saturday

About 1,600 students from 40 area schools are expected on the West Texas State College campus Saturday to compete in band solo and ensemble contests.

Contests will be held all day Saturday with youngsters competing for ratings in solo performance.

Vocal contests March 29 will draw an estimated 1,000 area students to Canyon.

U.S. vs. British Schools

If we accept the views of some critics at face value, American schools are in bad shape. Standards are woefully low. Other countries, such as Britain, are so far ahead of us as to be practically out of sight.

This kind of criticism, and the very serious questions that arise from it, caused U. S. News & World Report to look into British educational system and to compare it with ours. The results of the study, under a London dateline, appear in a recent issue.

And the picture, from the American point of view, is a good deal brighter—despite some cloudy patches—than the more extreme detractors of U. S. education would have us believe.

The article starts out with the big question: Do British children get a better education than their American counterparts? And that, it finds, can't be answered with a simple, unqualified "yes" or "no." The answer, instead, is divided: "It is true for a minority—the brightest children in Britain. It is not true, on the whole, for the majority of youngsters."

It is important to understand that there are fundamental differences between the British school system and ours. As the magazine puts it, "In Britain, the bright pupil gets practically all the breaks." If it is decided, when he is 11, that he is among the top 25 percent of pupils in his district he is eligible for a special school, and is destined to get much more education than the run-of-the-mill children.

These latter, the article goes on, must be content with the second best. Attending college is virtually out of the question. They usually enter the ranks of labor at 16.

Britain's famous "public schools"—which are in reality private schools, with tuitions running to $1,500 a year—are widely and deservedly praised, as are her great universities.

But only about seven percent of British children go to those schools. Moreover, Britain is near the bottom of the list of nations—25th—in the proportion of population attending universities. The U. S. is first, in this regard, and Russia is second.

U. S. News observes: "Many educators say the big difference between British and American schooling is this: Americans believe that all children should have the opportunity of equal education. The British believe in educating an intellectual elite by limiting the opportunity of higher education to a tiny minority."

Britain does seem to be ahead of us in certain areas. Educators are high in their praise of what is known as "streaming." This is a system by which children are assigned to classes on the basis of intelligence, so the bright child will not be held back by the dull. And British schools seem to be much more advanced in maintaining discipline than is generally true on our side of the ocean.

But American education has its virtues, too. As a matter of fact, Britain is borrowing ideas from U. S. education, and is particularly interested in providing greater educational opportunity for more children.

Here's the conclusion U. S. News reached: "The conclusion reached after a close look at the educational system in this country is this: The theory that British schools are better than American schools doesn't hold water as a general proposition. The brightest pupils go to schools that, on the whole, are appreciably better than most American schools. But the vast majority attends schools that are inferior to those in America. And, for most, school days end at a very early age, by U. S. standards."

Property Laws Create Confusion

The Internal Revenue Service reports that many Texans become confused on the community property law requirements at tax filing time. As many as 5,000 tax audits are expected in the Dallas District alone due to taxpayer confusion on this point.

H. B. Hamill, administrative officer of the Amarillo office, explained that many new Texans find it hard to believe that Texas community property law requires them to file their income tax return differently from most other states. He assured these new Texans, as well as the old ones, that the community property law does apply to their income tax. He gave this explanation:

(1) Texas community property law gives both husband and wife one-half of the total income and withholding credit each one receives;
(2) This means that in Texas the husband and wife must either file a joint return including all income or split equally between them for tax purposes all the income received by both and each file on one-half;

(3) If the husband and wife each file a separate return then they must either itemize the total deductions, taking one-half on each return, or both elect to take the standard deduction;

(4) The wife who works a short period cannot file a claim for refund claiming her exemption and then file a joint return with her husband;

(5) The husband and wife must split the income if they file separate returns. The husband and wife who file separate returns and do not split the income may cause a long delay in receiving their refund checks. Their returns will probably be audited if they do not follow the community property law in determining their income for the year.

Taxpayers having questions on community property income can call the IRS office for help.

Silly, Yet Sad

Farmers, caught between the bitter squeeze of cost and price, take little pleasure in the knowledge that railroad workers earn their basic day's pay with an average of less than four hours of work.

The problem throughout industry is one of being paid for work not done. The big problem in the steel strike is not wages but featherbedding.

There are such things as quotas so low that workmen could fill them with about a half day and yet receive a full day's pay; and an item of two men in a crane cab, now air conditioned, originally allowed because the heat was excessive and one man could relieve the other.

The Pittsburgh Plate Glass strike did not involve wages: there was the matter of eight hours pay for three hours work.

In the printing trade, make-work rules provide that all local advertising arriving at a newspaper in mat form (ready for casting and printing) be set in type, then typeproofed and then thrown away, never used.

In many cities plumbers refuse to use pre-threaded pipe; in some cases they even cut off the threaded end of the pipe and then rethread it.

In Chicago, an electrician is not allowed to use an electrically powered tool to drill through a joint.

Carpenters in many, many cities cannot use power saws.

A ship line needs only 10 on a conveyor, but must use 21, four of whom do nothing but take turns pushing buttons.

Painters in many cities are forbidden to use spray guns.

Some drivers for long-established truck lines in the west, working under 35-year-old agreements, finish their runs in five hours and get eight hours pay.

In that wonderful land of make-believe, the theater, featherbedding has long run rampant. A one-man show may require the services of four stage hands. Complete orchestras are frequently on the job during musical entertainment, but never play a note.

Only recently we had the displeasure of observing fork trucks at Port Brownsville unloading Valley citrus into a warehouse from a truck parked on the dock between the ship and the warehouse, and another fork truck picking up the same citrus and moving it from the warehouse back to the dock for loading onto the ship.

It would be silly if it were not so sad.

Scissor Snippings

Cecil Waggoner in the Claude News: See where the National Woman's Party in Washington is making a determined drive for "equal" rights for women. Since it is no longer the "law of the land" that separate but equal facilities are acceptable, this may well spell the end to our antiquated rest room facilities.

Paul Crume in the Dallas Morning News: Jim Craddock, an American Airlines pilot once, came up with a book recently that started talk among the oldtimers around Dallas Love Field.

It was a thick book got together to argue for more aid routes for the area back in the 1930's. Among other things, it contained the air navigation instructions from Dallas to El Paso.

It informed the pilot that shortly after he left Love Field on a compass course of 240 degrees, he would pass over a town called Irving, that the town could be recognized by a water tower 200 feet tall bearing the town's name.

Three minutes later the pilot would sight a high tension line, which if followed would bring him to Fort Worth. At one point, it would intersect a railroad, and 15 minutes along the railroad would fetch up Weatherford.

It was the way, said Craddock, that they navigated in those days.

LIPSTICK LOGIC

BY LOUISE ALLEN

Moving day was once a nightmare. Now it's in the Big League, with its own specialists and consultants.

Transfer companies offer turn-key service, moving one's household belongings across the street or across the continent. They pack, carry, load and unload while the lady of the house sits and tats, if she chooses — at least until they're ready to move the chair.

And recently we heard of a "moving consultant." For a price, this supercharged female offers to take the mental torture out of moving day, too. She outlines the steps for Milady to take in preparation, ranging from reminders to service men to cut off utilities, right through conditioning the children for giving up their friends.

This must be great news for those who travel light. In an age of mobile living, many families can shuck off such claptrap as litterers our home as easily as they slip out of an overcoat on a warm day. But those who put down deep roots don't find it as simple.

For instance, the 9,000 magazines stashed away in the garage — shall we go through them for the gems they're supposed to contain; take them with us; burn them; or cart them across town to a library? And what about the hundred-and-one jelly glasses? The toys and storybooks that no longer have a master? The old shoes and suits that "still have a few good wears in them?" The college yearbooks and worthless novels?

Most of the time we're glad to be deep-rooted. But come moving day, we envy those who look at life through many windows.

Hunters Discover 9,073 Duck Tags

AUSTIN—Some 9,073 banded waterfowl were reported killed within Texas boundaries from 1948 to 1958, according to a report released by the Wildlife Restoration Division of the Texas Game and Fish Commission. "These migrating birds came from as far away as Hudson Bay in Canada and parts of Alaska," said E. A. Walker, director of the division. "Nearly every state in the Union was represented with a band."

Of this total number, 6,875 were ducks or coots and the remaining 2,198 were geese. Pintails produced the most bands, with 2,988 being returned. Mallards carried 1,925 bands into the state, while redheads accounted for 608 bands. During the 10 year period, only two bands were recovered from ruddy ducks. A like number were recovered from buffleheads and greater scaups.

Snow geese carried 1,228 bands into Texas marshlands. Some 436 bands were turned in by hunters bagging Canada geese. Another 396 bands were taken from the legs of blue geese.

"Many people fail to realize the important role the banding program plays," said the director. "Of course, when only one or two bands are returned very little can be learned," he added. "But when everyone turns in their bands, as you can see, we can learn a great deal about migration routes, movements, and hunting pressure."

W. J. Bryan Spellbound Audience At Baseball Park in Tennessee

By BOYCE HOUSE

(Note: The American statesman, W. J. Bryan, was born 100 years ago—on March 19, 1860)

In the fall of 1914 when I was a high school student, William Jennings Bryan, the greatest orator in America, was going to speak in our city, so I went to hear him. So did several thousand others. The scene was Red Elm baseball park in Memphis. Bryan was delayed because his train was behind schedule and so the audience was entertained by speakers until he could arrive.

The governor of Mississippi apologized for his hoarseness by saying, "I have feathers in my throat" and a disrespectful listener called out, "You mean on your legs, don't you?" and someone yelled, "Hurray for Bilbo!" (Bilbo was a political foe of the governor). Then the governor of Louisiana spoke. All I remember about him was that he wore a black coat which was so tight — (he had it buttoned up) — that I was afraid, as he went through violent gestures, that the buttons would pop off, endangering bystanders.

But Governor Hays of Arkansas is still a vivid memory. Tennessee at that time had a Republican governor because of division in the Democratic party. The governor of Arkansas was tall and his head was as devoid of hair as a china nestegg. In shrill tones, he told the intensely partisan crowd: "I am informed that some of the Democrats in Tennessee have actually helped to elect a Republican governor. They say he is a g-o-o-d man. My friends, I would soon go down into the murky and sulphurous depths of hell in quest of angels or up to the golden, gleaming gates of heaven in search of devils as into the Republican party looking for honest men!" The air was rent with cheers and there were cries of "Hooray for Hays! Hays for President!"

The arrival of Bryan brought great applause. We saw a man of portly build, close to six feet in height, wearing a dark suit, the coat long, and a black string-tie. His face was full; his eyes were dark and his glance was penetrating; his nose was almost like the beak of a hawk; his mouth large; his jaw strong. He had a warm smile, almost one of benevolence. All in all, he was a handsome and impressive man.

At that time, he was secretary of state in President Wilson's cabinet and World War I had broken out not long before but the United States had not become involved. As he sat there, waiting to be introduced, he was handed a telegram. In most families, at that time, a telegram meant a death or, at least, a serious illness so the receipt of that yellow-hued message clined my belief that he was truly a great man.

When he arose after the introduction, he was greeted with tremendous cheers. Here was the Great Commoner, the Peerless Leader whom most of the audience three times had supported for president. He stood there, his noble face beaming. Then he began to speak; and what a voice he had! The meeting was in the open air and the platform was about where the pitcher's mound was. This was, of course, before the day of public address systems, and confronting him was an audience that filled the large grandstand and the bleachers, which were in left field.

The other speakers had been forced to bellow, except the glorious Hays of Arkansas, who had shrieked; but not Bryan. Without the slightest effort, seemingly, his voice rolled out. I was sitting in about the 15th row of the grandstand and I could hear him as clearly as the notes of a bugle, and so could everyone. In fact so resonant was his voice that when he turned to face the bleachers, which were to his right side and almost at his back, there was an echo; so, thereafter, when he turned, he lowered his voice. In one dramatic passage, he gave the last word, seemingly, in a whisper and yet it was like a whipcrack.

Now it happened that in Memphis in 1895 Bryan had been one of the leaders at a meeting at which the Democratic Bimetallic League was organized and this was the virtual launching of the free silver movement which resulted, the next year, in Bryan's first nomination for president. His opening words referred to this page of history: "As I was approaching this city tonight, it seemed to me that the car wheels, as they clicked over the rails, were saying, in the words of an orator of another generation, 'The past rises before me like a dream.' To hear the cadenced words of Robert Green Ingersoll uttered by the magnificent voice of Bryan was a mighty thrill to a schoolboy lover of oratory."

The baseball park was in a low area and the air was damp. Bryan had been speaking only a short time when he produced a skull cap and put it on, with the remark, "They used to call me 'the boy orator of the Platte' and now I have to protect my bald head from the 'evening dews and damps.'" Referring to that early campaign, he declared, "Then they said, 'If you put one of Bryan's silver dollars into a furnace, you will have only 50 cents left.' But if you put one of their paper dollars into a furnace, you wouldn't have any thing left."

He wove humor into his speech, using epigrams and relating stories. Speaking of the tariff, Bryan said that each industry wanted its own product protected but desired that the raw materials it used be on the free list. This reminded him of a story: A man entered a little clothing store in New York City and began to try on a suit but, when the owner's attention was diverted, the man ran out. The merchant pursued, shouting, "Stop thief. Stop thief!" A policeman began to draw his pistol and the owner yelled, "Shoot him in the pants; de coat and vest is mine!"

Bryan spoke deliberately but not slowly. He never grew excited; always, even when evoking emotions, he was the master of himself and therefore of the situation. He used few gestures and these were natural accompaniments of the utterance. The address, which consumed perhaps an hour, was interrupted many times by applause. Perhaps the most enthusiastically received was his tribute to President Wilson but for whose wisdom and steadfastness "the wails of the widows and orphans of Europe might tonight be echoed at thousands of American fire-sides."

To have seen Bryan and to have heard that rolling, sonorous, melodious voice was to have seen and heard one of the dozen greatest orators the world has ever known; it was an experience always to be remembered.

After a man starts going bad he doesn't have to be shown the way.

Washington Report Health of the Nation

By Representative Walter Rogers
18th Congressional District

The population of the United States on March 4, 1960, was, according to the best estimates of the U. S. Department of Commerce, 179,713,377. Of course, the decennial census will be taken next month and an exact head count of the American people will result.

Unquestionably, however, one fact is certain — the population of the country continues to increase rapidly. Many factors have a bearing on this situation, not the least of which is the fact that people of the United States live longer than their forefathers. The life expectancy of a newborn child continues to increase. Since 1943, the estimated average life expectancy for men and women increased from 63.3 years to 69.6 years in 1956 — a total of 6.3 years. The increase in average life expectancy can be attributed primarily, it seems to me, to the fact that considerable headway has been made and is being made in the control of crippling diseases.

In the period 1944-57, deaths from pneumonia declined 24 percent; infant deaths declined 34 percent; deaths caused by acute nephritis declined 65 percent; deaths from influenza declined 74 percent, as did deaths from syphilis; appendectomy deaths declined 78 percent and tuberculosis deaths dropped off 81 percent; maternal deaths and those from acute rheumatic fever both showed an 83 percent decline in the period.

Products of Research

The state of people's improved health, our ability to better control crippling diseases and our increased life expectancy can likely be attributed in large measure to the products of research. The development of antibiotics, Salk vaccine, psychic energizers, antihypertensive drugs are but a few of these products.

In my opinion, considerable of our progress is also due to improved health education. Many voluntary local, community and state organizations have organized in a determined effort to advance an awareness of the cause, treatment and cure of many illnesses.

In taking stock of the state of the nation's health, it is apparent that much has yet to be accomplished toward nominal control of fatal and crippling diseases.

Leading Death Cause

The number one cause of deaths in the United States today is arteriosclerosis which is the main factor in heart attacks, strokes, and other heart diseases. This disease is responsible for over 50 percent of our deaths today. Of 1,564,476 deaths in the United States in 1956, major cardiovascular-renal diseases accounted for 854,152 of them, as compared with 658,165 in a total of 1,401,719 deaths in 1945.

Cancer, the number two killer, of which there are 20 main types, took 247,357 U. S. lives in 1956 to account for 16 percent of the deaths. Eleven percent of the deaths are associated with childbirth while accidents account for 6 percent. Both of these are on the decrease. Pneumonia is responsible for 3 percent, and diabetes for 2 percent of our deaths, while cirrhosis of the liver and suicide each account for 1 percent. The death rate for tuberculosis has declined so that it can be attributed to less than 1 percent of all deaths in the United States.

Let us hope that with American ingenuity, which is born of the free enterprise system, we continue to progress in control of fatal and disabling diseases to the end that all of our people can enjoy a fruitful and healthy life.

8 Wrecks Noted During February

The Highway Patrol Service of the Texas Department of Public Safety investigated eight rural accidents in Randall County during February, according to Sergeant D. W. Duggan of Hereford.

In making this announcement the sergeant reported five property damage, two injury, and one fatal accidents. These wrecks caused a total property damage of $4,810 with four persons injured and one killed.

The Highway Patrol supervisor reminded motorists that Texas law requires all registered motor vehicles to have valid inspection stickers displayed by midnight, April 15. "In addition, all trailers registered in Texas which exceed 4,000 pounds gross weight must be inspected," the sergeant said.

The Motor Vehicle Inspection Program, since its inception in 1951, has reduced the state's traffic accidents by almost 10 percent, the sergeant explained. Before the inspection program was started, mechanical defects in vehicles was a causative factor in 13 percent of the state's accidents. However, only four percent of the traffic accidents are caused by mechanical defects now.

The Patrol supervisor stated that only eight percent of the vehicles in this county have been inspected and that patrolmen will be stopping all vehicles not displaying a valid sticker after the April 15 deadline. The best way to avoid the long lines expected in the last minute rush is to have your vehicle inspected now.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Burkett, 2624 Second Avenue, are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Johnny Wa Nell, to Johnny F. Raymond, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Dooley of Sunray. The wedding will be April 15 in Joseph A. Hill Chapel on the West Texas State College campus.

Wool Marketing Year Ends Soon

Doyle G. Thomas, office manager of the Randall County ASC, reminds wool growers that the marketing year for purposes of the 1959 wool program will end March 31.

The wool program is conducted under the National Wool Act of 1954. Payments under the 1959 program will be made this summer when payment rates are determined on the basis of the national average price received by producers for shorn wool during the 1959 marketing year.

For a completed sale, Thomas says, title must have passed to the buyer, the wool must have been delivered to the buyer (either physically or through documents), and the last of the factors (price per pound, weight, yield, etc.) needed to determine the total purchase price must be available.

If any condition concerning the sale is not settled by March 31, the sale will not be considered as complete.

Applications for payment under the 1959 program must be filed with the county ASC office not later than April 30.

Hot Check Spree Ends in Canyon

A trail of hot checks totaling $1,080 ended abruptly at Canyon Saturday when three youths from Pauls Valley, Okla., were picked up by sheriff's deputies.

Held on a charge of swindle with a worthless check is Audra M. Shackelford of Pauls Valley. Charged as accomplices are Phyllis Ann Pledger, 21, and Curtis Ray Evans, 22.

End of the trio's spree began when the 19-year-old Shackelford girl gave a check for $20 at Jennings Dress Shop. A few moments later, Jack Jennings, owner of the shop, recognized her as she gave another check at M. E. Moses variety store.

Jennings and Bill Brundige, manager of Moses, called officers and watched as she continued around the square, giving two more checks. Ray Tinsley and Al Smithers, deputy sheriffs, arrested her and then picked up Evans and Miss Pledger as they waited in a car on the square.

The trio left Pauls Valley March 6 and gave worthless checks totaling $1,080 in towns enroute to Canyon, Tinsley said. Pauls Valley is southeast of Oklahoma City.

MRS. KENNETH SAMUEL FISHER

Kathleen Brookman, Kenneth Fisher Married in Memphis, Tenn., Rites

Miss Kathleen Elaine Brookman of Memphis, Tenn., became the bride of Kenneth Samuel Fisher, also of Memphis, in a double ring ceremony February 27 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Sartain. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Brookman of St. Louis, Mo., and Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Fisher of Canyon.

The Rev. James E. Hamill, pastor of the First Assembly of God Church in Memphis, read the rites before an arch of wrought iron decorated with ivy. The light was from 18 candles set in two candelabras on each side of the arch. Flower baskets filled with gladioli, roses, and carnations were set on each side of the arch. Another basket sat on the hearth of the fireplace.

Miss Jane Sartain, organist, played the wedding march.

Miss Denise Burr of Chicago, Ill., attended the bride. She wore a street length turquoise taffeta gown, with a bouquet of pink and white carnations. The headpiece was also turquoise pearls and sequins with a turquoise fingertip veil. Samuel D. House of Memphis was best man.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a bridal gown of white Chantilly lace over taffeta and tulle. The gown had a scoop neckline and three-quarter sleeves. The bridal headpiece was made of matching lace with a fingertip illusion veil. The bridal bouquet was of carnations and white orchids.

A reception followed in the home.

After a short wedding trip to Mississippi, the couple are making their home in Memphis. The bride chose a brown woolen suit, with brown and white accessories for the trip. Her corsage was a white orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The bride attended the University of Missouri at Columbia, Mo., and Washington University in St. Louis. She is affiliated with Delta Gamma social sorority and is employed as a stewardess for Delta Airlines. The bridegroom attended West Texas State College and was a pilot in the Navy. He is a pilot for Delta Air Lines.

Mr. and Mrs. Lem Fisher of Canyon attended the wedding.

Baseball Begins Today for Buffs

West Texas State and Texas Tech open their baseball seasons today when they meet in a nine-inning game at 3 p.m. on the Buff diamond. The clubs will square off again Saturday in Lubbock.

Coach George Ritter has named a senior lefthander—Harold Smith of Childress—for the starting Buff moundman. Don Holtzclaw, a Dumas senior who led the team in hitting last year, will catch.

Other probable starters for the Buffs will have Bob Pierce, 1b, Bill Schneider, 2b, Henry Holman, ss, Leroy Bannister, 3b, Wayne Potter, rf, Jim Lewter, cf, and Dick Trollinger, lf.

Bad weather has limited the Buffs to five workouts and Coach Ritter is expected to use several pitchers in the inaugural game. Other members of the pitching corps include righthanders Gayle McKinley and Jimmy Lawless and southpaws Keith Yeager, Don Carpenter, and Doug Roark.

Also vying for starting berths are Buddy King, 2b, Jerry Day, 2b, Jack Kula, ss, Bill Dowty, of, and L. H. Martin, of.

The Buffs have 11 players returning from the 1958 club that dropped a three-game series to Texas Tech.

TELEPHONE TALK

by Al Leach, Manager

I had the pleasure of attending the Canyon Rotary Club recently and enjoyed a very informative program on "Texas Public Schools Week." Three students from Canyon High School, Bill Callarman, Billie Miller, and Virginia Crouse, appeared on the program. They certainly did a nice job of representing the Canyon schools and presented some interesting material concerning the curriculum of studies available. I think most people realize the importance of our schools, but it's still a good idea to remind us of it, now and then.

PICK-A-PHONE

"Sure be nice when the spring flowers start blooming," a fellow down the block said the other day. "Just looking at their colors makes me feel good."

"Say," I said, "since you like color so much I have a suggestion."

"What's that?" he asked.

"A color phone. You have a wide choice, red, white, green—nine altogether." Almost as an afterthought I added, "You can pick your phone from—A garden of colors!"

That did it. "Now you're talking my language," said my garden-loving friend. He chuckled. "Colors of the garden in my house with color phones. Think I'll get one—maybe even two."

Why don't you do as he did? Treat yourself to color phones.

IT'S SMART TO LOOK UP THE NUMBER

"The best way to learn and remember something is to look it up—" That's what a teacher told me years ago when I asked how to spell a word.

It was good advice then. It's good advice now. When you want to know a number, for instance, the best thing to do is look it up in the directory.

Incidentally, if you'd like a free Blue Book for keeping frequently-called numbers, just phone the telephone business office.

Call by number. It's twice as fast.

Favorable Review Given Music For Bands by Houston Bright

"Excitingly fresh . . . scoring brilliantly handled . . . craftsmanship apparent on every page . . . colors of the band handled with skill and variety . . ."

These are some of the complimentary phrases appearing in a recent review of Dr. Houston Bright's "Prelude and Fugue in F Minor for Band," published by Shawnee Press only a few weeks ago.

The review appears in the March, 1960, issue of The Instrumentalist, nationally circulated band and orchestra periodical.

The Prelude and Fugue is one of three new music publications by Dr. Bright, professor of music at West Texas State College.

Also recently released by Shawnee are two choruses, "The Days That Are No More" and "Te Deum Laudamus." The former, an a cappella setting of a text by Lord Tennyson, was written especially for the Littlefield High School A Cappella Choir, directed by Hugh Ellison. It was premiered by the Littlefield Choir late in the spring of 1959.

"Te Deum Laudamus," a festival chorus, is a setting of the traditional Latin hymn text used by so many composers through the centuries in compositions for occasions of thanksgiving, after great victories, etc., and is usually rendered in English as "We Praise Thee, O God."

Dr. Bright's Te Deum was written especially for massed chorus performance at the Borger High School Choral Festival March 16, 1956. This number is published by Associated Music Publishers, Inc., of New York.

The Prelude and Fugue was premiered by the West Texas State College Band some two years ago, and is this year once more in the repertoire of the band in its published form.

The review in The Instrumentalist stated:

"A strident and almost harshly dissonant Prelude is followed by a Fugue in the best academically correct style with traditional harmonies. The combination is excitingly fresh, and the scoring is brilliantly handled. Like any new work, appreciation of it depends on personal taste, but the sincerity of the composer and his craftsmanship as a writer are apparent on every page of the score. He handles the colors of the band with skill and variety while composing in an idiom that lends itself ideally to the band. There is a fine full score, and the price of the parts and score must be considered more than reasonable for these days. A piece that is well worth looking over."

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

March 20-26 has been designated as National Wildlife Week. National Wildlife Week was first proclaimed by President Roosevelt in 1938. It has been sponsored annually since by the National Wildlife Federation and the state groups that belong to the federation.

Purpose of the week is to focus public attention on the importance of our natural resources and on the broad and pressing problems of conservation.

The supervisors of the Randall-Potter SCD encourage farmers and ranchers to include wildlife practices in their conservation plans. E. W. Glenn, who lives approximately 12 miles east of Canyon, has planted a good wildlife area. This area comprises approximately .8 of an acre and is planted to Desert Willow and Russian Olive trees.

Glenn also has provided food and escape cover for quail. Other farmers who have installed wildlife improvement areas on their farms include J. W. Spencer and C. V. Conatser.

The cover crop plantings and grass plantings on conservation reserve land provides a good area for improvement of wildlife.

The Great Plains Conservation Program provides a cost-share payment for establishment of a wildlife area. Trees, fencing, and food can be provided for under this program.

Since the theme of the 1960 National Wildlife Week is "Water: Key to your survival," the supervisors of this district feel that if all farmers, ranchers, and others cooperating with their local SCD in soil and water conservation work, the items listed below can be eliminated or prevented:

(1) Pollution of streams, lakes, and other sources of fresh water through discharge of untreated sewage and industrial waste;

(2) Soil erosion where poor practices strip the cropland of cover;

(3) Floods that destroy cities, croplands, etc.;

(4) Poorly planned dams and other developments that flood out or use valuable agriculture land.

Farmers interested in becoming cooperators with the local SCD should contact one of the supervisors or the SCS technicians in the Randall County Courthouse.

Sale Prices Set For CCC Cotton

Minimum sales prices for Commodity Credit Corporation stocks of upland cotton have been determined for the 1960-61 marketing year, according to Doyle G. Thomas, office manager of the Randall County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

The new sales prices are intended to emphasize farmers' marketings. The announcement at this time will provide farm operators with information on CCC's sales prices before the March 16 deadline for electing Choice (B) allotments and price support for the 1960 crop.

For 1959 and prior crops of upland cotton in CCC inventory, the new minimum sales price will be the higher of (1) the market price as determined by CCC, or (2) 115 percent of the 1960 Choice (B) loan rate. This compares with the current 110 percent of the loan rate.

For 1960 crop cotton, the minimum sales price is as follows: When the cotton is sold by local sales agencies, the minimum sales price will be 110 percent of the Choice (B) loan rate; when the cotton is sold by the New Orleans CSS Commodity office, the minimum sales price will be the higher of (1) the market price as determined by CCC, or (2) 110 percent of the Choice (B) loan rate.

Thomas pointed out that carrying charges will be added to the sales price, beginning with 10 points in October, 1960, and increasing 20 points per month for each month thereafter to a maxi-

Stamp on Water Conservation to Be Issued Soon

Soil and water conservation leaders here are looking forward to issuance of the world's first water conservation postage stamp by the Post Office Department. J. W. Spencer, chairman of the board of the Soil Conservation District, said this week.

The commemorative four-cent stamp, printed in three colors, will be issued April 18 at the National Watershed Congress in Washington, D. C., at a ceremony featuring three cabinet members.

The stamp will go on sale the following day, April 19, at post offices throughout the country, including the one at Canyon.

"The beautiful new stamp dramatizes the fact that water is our most precious and most limiting natural resource," Spencer said. Local observance of the water conservation stamp's issuance is being planned, he said.
